

Contents

---

---

Acknowledgments	v
Contributors	vi
1 Introduction Alan Shepard and Stephen D. Powell	1
AFFILIATION AND APPROPRIATION
2 How Troy Came to Spenser James Carscallen	15
3 “Fairer than the evening air”: Marlowe’s Gnostic Helen of Troy and the Tropes of Belatedness and Historical Mediation Michael Keefer	39
4 In Search of the Trojan Origins of French: The Uses of History in the Elevation of the Vernacular in Early Modern France Paul Cohen	63
5 Togail Troí : The Irish Destruction of Troy on the Cusp of the Renaissance Brent Miles	81
6 The Disappearance of the Trojan Legend in the Historiography of Venice Sheila Das	97
RHETORIC, TRANSLATIO IMPERII, AND TROJAN LEGACY
7 Smiting High Culture in the “Fondement”: The Seege of Troye as Medieval Burlesque Pamela Luff Troyer	117
8 Imagining the Masculine: Christine de Pizan’s Hector, Prince of Troy Lorna Jane Abray	133

9	La Troade de Garnier: destins malheureux et exemples héroïques Stéphanie Bélanger	149
10	“What’s Hecuba to him . . .”: Trojan Heroes and Rhetorical Selves in Shakespeare’s Hamlet Andrew Hiscock	161
11	Embracing Troy: Surrey’s Aeneid Stephen Guy-Bray	177
12	Appropriating Troy: Ekphrasis in Shakespeare’s The Rape of Lucrece Christopher Johnson	193
EXEMPLARITY IN TROYNOVANT
13	Slandorous Troys: Between Fame and Rumor Elizabeth Jane Bellamy	215
14	Falling into History: Trials of Empire in Spenser’s Faerie Queene Rebeca Helfer	237
15	According to “the common received opinion”: Munday’s Brute in The Triumphes of Re-United Britannia (1605) Scott Schofield	253
16	The Fall of Troynovant: Exemplarity after the Death of Henry, Prince of Wales Michael Ullyot	269
	Index	291